

Where Are The Men?

a film by Taraneh R. Salke & Von Raees

*Making allies with men in male dominated societies to better the lives of women...
A film about training men in family planning and reproductive health in Afghanistan...*

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH
AT SAN DIEGO STATE UNIVERSITY

The Graduate School of Public Health's Global Health Program presents:

Where Are The Men?

A film by Taraneh R. Salke and Vonn Raees

Date: Wednesday, February 27, 2013

Time: 1:30-3:30 PM

Place: SDSU Room TBD

Students, Staff,
Faculty, and the Public are invited

Taraneh Salke is a Women's Rights Advocate, Lecturer, Film maker, and a Global Health Consultant. She focuses on global women's health & development, specifically family planning and reproductive health, in the Middle East and Muslim societies. Taraneh is the founder and executive director of Family Health Alliance (FHA), a nonprofit organization dedicated to advancement of women's reproductive health and rights in resource-poor environments. Taraneh's award winning short-documentary film, "Where Are The Men?" is about making allies with men for family planning and reproductive health in Afghanistan. She will be joined for a panel discussion with Professor Anita Raj (UCSD), Assoc. Professor Hala Madanat (SDSU), and Dr. Nancy Binkin (SDSU).

<http://publichealth.sdsu.edu>

www.familyhealthalliance.org